Planning

Everyone planning together—not everyone planning separately.

Couples, venues, and your team all contribute to the same planning experience—so every update, decision, and detail stays connected from the first conversation to event day.

01

One Shared Workspace

Everyone contributes to the same planning experience instead of maintaining separate versions.

02

Nothing Gets Lost

Questions, decisions, notes, and updates stay attached to the booking instead of disappearing into email.

03

Progress Feels Natural

Planning simply moves forward because everyone is working from the same information.

Planning becomes hospitality.

Most planning software asks venues to become project managers.

Hello to Cheers lets them remain hosts.

Everyone Stays Aligned

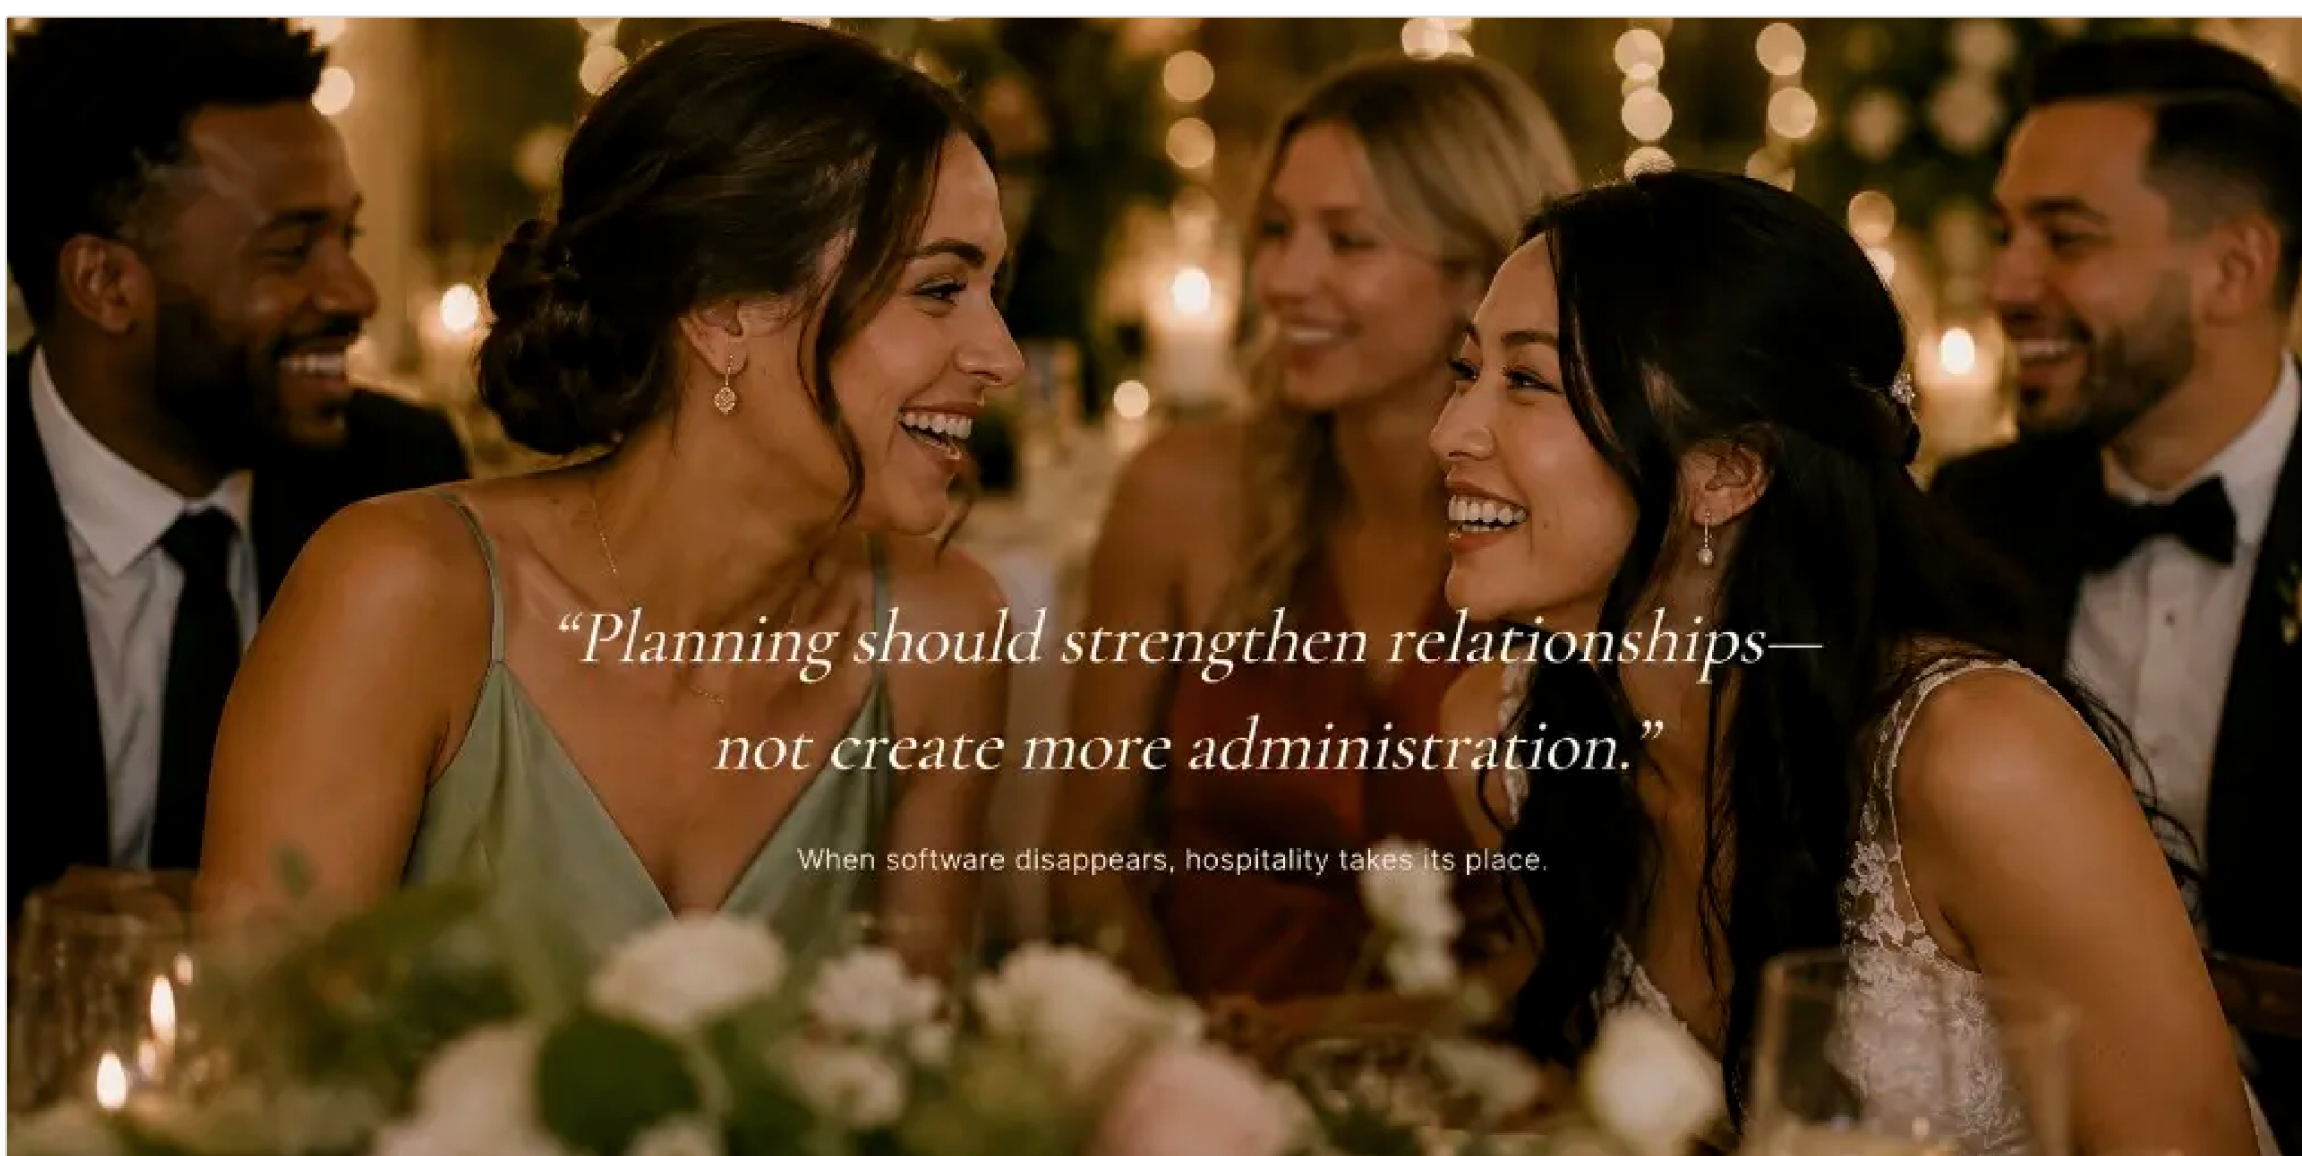

One place for every decision.

Instead of asking, “Where did we write that?”

Your team already knows.

Because every decision stays with the event.

Less managing. More celebrating.

Planning doesn't belong to the venue.

Or the couple.

Or a coordinator.

It belongs to everyone.

That's why Hello to Cheers keeps every conversation, decision, timeline, task, and update together—so the experience feels collaborative instead of complicated.
